

Allowing wireless phone use on aircraft is a recipe for more 'air rage' incidents. The quiet airplane cabin is one of the only places we have left that we don't have to hear cell phones ringing and people screaming into their phones. A better option would be inflight internet/email services.